Tripoli Scene Of Revolution

Disasters on Large Scale Reported—Italians Evacuate Two Coast Towns.

(By The Associated Press.)
ROME, March 11.—A revolution on a large scale has broken out in Tripoli, says a dispatch to the newspaper Il Mondo. Rebels have cut the railway in many places and attacked Italian garrisons. The Italians have evacuated Chater and Zavia, on the coast.

Shot To Death While At Window

(By The Associated Press.)
RIVERSIDE, N. J., March 11.—John Rheodoff, 31, an amusement promoter, was shot to death today while he was reading at a window. His wife heard the shot, but there is no clue as to the slayer.

Two Danville Bills Adopted by Assembly

It is understood that all of the bills introduced by Delegate Joseph E. Anderson into the General Assembly, have been adopted as introduced, with the exception, perhaps, of that charter amendment which would raise the fine limit of the city from $50 to $500. The bill relative to the issuing of bonds by the council and to the election by the council of the city collector and the city attorney are known to have been adopted by both houses. Those in touch with the legislative situation today appeared to be uncertain about the third bill, relative to the fining limit.

Negro Draws Fine for Stealing Plows

Alfonso Flanagan, a negro, arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing two plows, was tried in the mayor's court this morning and fined $10 and costs. The implements were alleged to have been stolen from the Alms House. The negro denied stealing them and said that he bought them from a colored man, whom he did not know.

Next Week's Weather

RICHMOND, March 11.—Moderate temperature, with considerable cloudiness and occasional rains, except for snows along the northern border, are predicted for next week.

Rich Yale Athlete Elopes With Girl In 'Frolic' Chorus

Robert S. Savage, 20, Marries Miss Geneva Mitchell, 17—His Family in Conference.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Robert S. Savage, 20, Yale freshman, who recently, athlete, poet, and youngest son of a family long prominent in the annals of the Frolic chorus, eloped Sunday with Miss Geneva Mitchell, 17, of the chorus of Ziegfeld's "Midnight Frolic" and of "Sally."

This became known yesterday when the bridegroom at the Hotel Biltmore confirmed a rumor originating in Milford, Conn.

"It began when the 'Frolic' opened," he explained. "It was in the polo stick race. Geneva was wearing a 'T' sweater, and that night she won. I went again the next night, and she slipped or something. Anyway, she lost, and I felt terribly sorry for her—you understand. I was with some friends who knew her, and so I met her."

With extraordinarily broad shoulders backed up against a door in a hotel room lavishly ornamented with pictures of the bride, he went on:

"Since then, I've been to 'Sally' 12 times and 10 times to the 'Frolic.' I'm still going. You can tell the world that I'm crazy about that girl," pointing to a life-size enlargement of a photograph leaning against a chair.

On a dresser were remains of proof from a Bridalport publisher, who is bringing out this month a volume of the youthful bridegroom's verse, to be entitled, "The First Road to Turning." The first road, he pointed out, was his birthday anniversary on March 23, when he will be 21. Poems of Culver Military Academy, Phillips Exeter Academy, the Milford school, Yale, ranch life in Texas, were there, and poems of "golden tresses" and "roven locks."

Savage has been attending the Milford school, having dropped out at Yale in February, because of entrance conditions that still chafed, and made him ineligible for athletics. His father, John A. Savage, who died 10 years ago, founded the steel company of John A. Savage Company of Duluth, Minn., now headed by John A. Jr. Edward and another brother, former full-back on Ted Gray's famous Yale team, is in the firm of Guggenheim Bros., No. 120 Broadway.

Orders Sale Of Franklin Railway

Judge P. H. Dillard, of Franklin county circuit court, has ordered the sale of the Franklin and Pittsylvania Railway, its rolling stock, tracks and franchise. The date of the sale will be sometime in April. The court has named F. K. Fulkhouser, Roanoke, Herbert N. Dillard, B. A. Davis and John P. Lee, of Rocky Mount, as special commissioners.

The Franklin and Pittsylvania, which was built years ago by private enterprise and leased for a term of years by the Southern, ceased to operate several months ago. The company could not survive a financial situation and with the run-down condition of the property, the service was abandoned. The government contract to carry mail between Gretna and Rocky Mount, the terminal points of the short line, was revoked and, recently contracts for mail delivery by star routes were let.

Some time ago there was talk of Franklin county capital becoming interested in the line, buying it and rehabilitating it, but little since has been heard of this. It is reliably understood that the Southern Railway Company is not interested in the venture, owing to the considerable expense which would be entailed in rehabilitating the line. Rocky Mount, the county seat of Franklin, has been dealt a sharp blow by the failure of the railway company.

France Perplexed By U. S. Demands

Surprise Greets America's Request for $41,000,000 to Reimburse Nation for Rhineland Occupation.

(By The Associated Press.)
PARIS, March 11.—The demand by the United States for reimbursement to the extent of $41,000,000 for expenses of its Rhineland forces before any reparation sum is paid has provoked surprise and perplexity in French official circles. The allied finance ministers met today to consider the situation created by this demand.

House Stands Pat On Referendum

(Special to The Bee.)
RICHMOND, March 11.—The House today stood pat on the referendum of the road bond issue and the Senate has requested a conference committee. The House shows no sign of complying at this time.

The Mills resolution naming a commission of 10 to study and make recommendations to the next Legislature on the character of a memorial to soldiers was passed in the Senate today. The moving picture bill was up in the Senate at 1 o'clock with opposition on the floor. If the matter reaches a vote it will pass. It has already passed the House.

Will Continue Drive For D. M. I.

The drive to secure the remaining half of the $15,000 needed to lift the mortgage from Danville Military Institute will be resumed by Chamber of Commerce and Young Men's Business Club committees during the next few days. This week the Jewish Relief drive which has been quickly conducted, has been given the right of way and the results are said to have been gratifying. The Presbyterian Synod of Virginia has been virtually assured that the full amount will be raised and it is working on the assumption that the remaining $8,000 is guaranteed. A sum of nearly $20,000 has been raised among the Presbyterians of Danville to be used in renovating the interior of D. M. I. This money will be used not for any additional bulks but for the purchase of the interior of the D. M. I. plant. The interior will be repainted and the plumbing and heating thoroughly overhauled.

The Synod is waiting for the arrival of the new principal before taking any further steps in connection with the conduct of the college.

Saunders Much Puzzled About Dry Measure

RICHMOND, March 10.—Both Senate and house yesterday adopted the Mapp-Deans prohibition enforcement bill as it came from the conferees of the two branches of the general assembly. Seventeen votes were cast against it in the Senate and five in the house. The bill is declared by Senator Mapp to be the most drastic enforcement act adopted by a general assembly and may be said to be in more senses than one the last work in prohibition legislation in Virginia. Upon the question of whether it can be enforced or not will depend the future of prohibition in Virginia, according to many legislators who say that it is about all that can be done in the way of law-making.

The search and seizure provision is considered one of the most drastic parts of the new law and there are legislators who believe that it is in violation of constitutional inhibitions. To a great extent it nullifies the Deal act which, adopted at the session of 1920, was designed to protect citizens against reckless searches and seizures.

John R. Saunders, attorney general of Virginia, has not determined what will be the plan of administration of the prohibition enforcement division of the state government, the duties of which have been placed as an additional burden on his shoulders by the general assembly.

Mr. Saunders admits that the question is puzzling him and he is glad that he has until August 31 of this year to solve the problem. On that date the present prohibition department, by virtue of the act of 1920, comes to an end.

"Of course, I suppose I will have to name a person to head the enforcement work, and I may have to appoint a different part of the staff. If you can tell me what is the best plan I will be obliged to you. I confess that I have as yet no plan clearly mapped out in my mind."

Mr. Saunders did not seek the honor of saving the responsibility of direct prohibition enforcement in Virginia, but since it has been thrust upon him he intends to make the most of it. The new law allows him to select the personnel having complete discretion in regard to any administrative scheme which he may adopt.

There are several limitations to the right to search without warrant. Officers must have a warrant to search private dwellings and occupied berths on steamboats and trains, and heavy penalties are provided for the violation of this provision. Private baggage will not be exempt from search without warrant except when it is in an occupied berth or when in the possession of a person who is in violation of the prohibition law is observed. Automobiles are liable to search without warrant, and the "dry" agent may pounce down upon a submarine or go into an airplane if he has the facilities to cope with these modern inventions.

Senator Goodrick, speaking of the new law, says that no free people will long submit to an unjustifiable intrusion on their rights and that a revolution of feeling in the next two years will bring the legislature to its senses.

Senator Leedy declares that the act is in direct violation of the provision of the constitution in regard to searches and seizures.

LATE NEWS

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary Hughes, in writing to Senator Underwood, declared that intimations that American arms conference delegates had been induced to accept some plan cunningly contrived by other opponents to American interests was an erroneous conception of the conference work. He said a full disclosure would reveal nothing derogatory to American delegates.

Coal Bin Fires Puzzle Fighters

The spontaneous combustion of a quantity of coal in the coal cellar of the Leeland Hotel a few nights ago, which was quickly controlled by firemen has aroused the curiosity of the fire fighting force and Fire Chief Mitchell of the department has ordered a similar fire. The Leeland incident is interesting in connection with the fact that at Schofield a large bin of steam coal containing several hundred tons has been burning steadily for three weeks apparently from the same cause, spontaneous combustion.

The fire or the generation of heat in sufficient quantity as to create volumes of steam is located in Schofield at the very bottom of the deep pile of coal just as it was the case in the Leeland Hotel. Firemen who raked the coal found that while there was no flame and no glowing fire, the heat from the chemical reaction in the coal was intense and when water was applied the coal hissed and spluttered as though it were burning. Much of the coal was found to have been thoroughly consumed and reduced to large clinkers having the appearance of coke. Steps are being taken to reduce the consumption of the coal pile at Schofield and the coal in the hotel has been thoroughly dampened and all danger removed.

Virginia Plans Coaching School

CHARLOTTESVILLE, March 10.—Pursuant to the recommendation of the University of Virginia's Athletic Council of Nine, for the establishment of an athletic coaching school at the university summer quarter, Dean Charles G. Maphis has, during the past week, communicated with several of the leading coaches throughout the country in an attempt to secure a competent director of this school for the coming year.

Among those with whom Dean Maphis has come in touch are Walter Camp, Glenn Warner, of Pittsburgh; Tad Jones, of Yale; Wilce, of Columbia; and Gilmore Dole, of Cornell. The most favorable reply which has yet been received to the same yesterday in the form of a telegram from Coach Dobbie, in which he inquired as to the exact nature of the course intended to be given, and wished to know whether the course would be devoted to all branches of athletics or exclusively to football. Warner and Jones replied that they would not be available for the summer.

The purpose of this course will be to furnish instruction in the coaching and directing of football, basketball and track to high school and preparatory school coaches. While the school is designed primarily for the state of Virginia, it will not be restricted to them, and it is expected that the course, if established, will be patronized by athletic supervisors throughout the entire south.

Increased Freight Rates Draw Protest

The traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce has taken up consideration of the recently announced increase in freight rates which affect the local shippers. In some instances rates have been increased as much as 50 per cent. It is not yet known what relief can be secured but the Chamber of Commerce is intent on bringing to the attention of the Interstate Commerce commission certain glaring irregularities in freight rate increases which are considered manifestly unjust.

Session — Has Not Yet Appointed Commonwealth Attorney for Pittsylvania County.

Judge Turner Clement, who was elected by the General Assembly judge of the Seventh Virginia Circuit, has qualified for his new position and has this week been holding his first term of court at Stuart in Patrick county. He left Chatham for Patrick county without appointing a successor as commonwealth's attorney of Pittsylvania, and this has led to the belief in several quarters that he is waiting for the return from Richmond of State Senator George T. Lee, who has been frequently spoken of as a likely appointee.

Judge Clement qualified for his post at Stuart before the Court T. Lee, Lee Clarke, and the members of the Patrick bar presented him with which to sign the oath of office.

The new judge delivered a forcible charge to the Patrick county grand jury, which he defined his idea of real citizenship and the enforcement of law and order in even hand. His charge to the jury follows:

"The enforcement of law and order in every community necessarily rests with grand juries and petit juries and no man can be brought to trial for a felony or violation of the prohibition laws except by the indictment of a grand jury, and that for misdemeanor, except violation of the prohibition law. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction but that a person is convicted of a misdemeanor or by a Justice of the peace has the right of appeal to the Circuit Court and trial by a jury. So that in the last analysis, even a person who had committed a misdemeanor the punishment rests with a jury of his fellow men."

"Public officials in the enforcement of law and order will not rise any higher than the citizenship of the community. In other words, the creature would hardly rise higher than the creator, or a stream would not rise higher than the level of its source. I do not wish to place myself in the position of emphasizing the enforcement of one law more than another, but in recent years experience has shown that public officials were more critical and even unjust, an account of failure to enforce the prohibition laws, when as a matter of fact the real task was the citizenship of the community which did not cooperate with the public officials, and to a disinclination of grand juries and juries who are taken from the citizenship to enforce these laws and a disinclination of the part of the people to give information and appear as witnesses before the grand jury and juries on the presentation and trial of these cases."

The next session of court will be at Chatham, starting Monday week. Owing to the fact that Judge Clement was interested as commonwealth's attorney in several criminal cases and as attorney in some civil cases, he has asked Judge Richard S. Kerr to hold court for him in Chatham.

State May Get New Constitution

Question of a Convention to Be Submitted to People This Fall — Other Richmond News.

(Special to The Bee.) RICHMOND, March 11.—Virginia will have a chance to have a new constitution in the next few years. That is the decree of the general assembly, when a bill was enacted providing for submitting the question to the voters of the state at the election of the coming fall, when a new States senator and members of Congress are to be chosen. The matter has been before the legislature on several occasions, and once it passed both houses, only to be defeated when the House of Delegates refused to pass it. It was then submitted to the people. The Senate went so far this session to reject a resolution for a submission of the question, and when it came from the House of Delegates it was taken up on the floor of the Senate and agreed to.

There were some sharp utterances on the subject of the calling of a convention, it being stated that the legislature was being "bought" by the influence of railroads so that nothing except matters that were approved by the railroads were allowed to become law, and that suspicion attached to many legislative acts. The bill, however, in effect is declared to be a patchwork due to the many changes that have been made, so that it does not resemble the instrument which was proclaimed here 20 years ago.

While the vote in the Senate was lopsided in favor of allowing the people to vote on the question, there was much opposition on the part of senators to the proposition. The ground for this opposition was that there is a condition of unrest existent in all parts of the state, with many persons out of work, dissatisfaction with the tax situation, much divided on the question of new taxes, and the bond issue for roads and the ever-present menace in certain sections as to the result of a poll when the negroes begin to take part in elections. Members declared, however, that there was little or no danger from the negro vote—that having been eliminated years ago, and with the negro paying no attention to voting, the poll-tax requirement being an obstacle that he does not care to overcome in order to exercise the right of suffrage. In only a few sections of the state are the colored people in the majority, even if all were qualified to vote, and there is very little reason to believe that enough would ever comply with the laws in order to vote. As the matter stands, where they have failed to pay taxes after reaching the legal age they would have to pay back taxes for three years in order to get on the books.

Amendments Costly. During the discussion of the constitution proposition the statement was made that since the constitution was made effective 20 years ago there has been expended not less than a million dollars in advertising amendments that have been suggested, many of which were rejected but which had to be published in the newspapers of the state as required by law. The matter of cost of a constitutional convention will be discussed by the people and as the one hundred members of the legislature, without regard to the time they are here it is expected that the cost would be quite an item. The constitution of today, however, is declared by many to be a patchwork of more or less a code of laws that the basic work on which laws are to be built.

Brothers Are Legislators. It is seldom that one finds members of the same family serving in the general assembly at one and the same time, and yet that is what has happened in Virginia this year. Senator William H. Jefferys, Jr., of Mechanicsburg, is completing his eighth year in the upper branch, and his brother, Robert L. Jefferys, is finishing his first year in the House of Delegates. That is not all. The brothers are serving on the same committee in the general assembly, and have been on the same committee and bills for the same purpose. They married cousins, they are partners in business and they are among the successful business men of the state. Politically they are standing together and whatever concerns one is the concern of the other. They have the confidence of the people of their county. Senator Jefferys, Jr., is a long time member of the House of Delegates. He was a member of the town council. They come from an old and distinguished family.

Have Great Medical School. No one with authority to speak will say a word for or against the proposed bill to be the final disposition of the present Medical College of Virginia located here. It is a state institution and has had a long and honorable career and from its halls have gone distinguished medical men. The legislature failed to consolidate the college here with the University of Virginia, to make it a part of that institution to be located here. It is not clear that the college is in need of funds, for instructors come high and only the best are allowed to instruct students. Belief is general that the college here will never be allowed to close its doors, whether the bill is passed or not. The belief is fixed in the minds of many persons that within two years the old college will become the medical department of the University of Virginia, and under the direction of the State will have an endowment of several millions when it is formally opened, under the direction of the University of Richmond. It is said that if that project it would have serious times the present matriculation.

Lobbyists Are Bolder. Twice this session has Speaker Brewer been compelled to remove the lobbyists from the floor, where they importune members to vote for or against measures. The lobbyists are more numerous than ever and are both men and women. A day or two ago, due to the presence of perhaps a score on the floor, Speaker Brewer halted the affairs of the session and ordered the sergeant at arms to remove them. They did not budge from the right to enter and who was engaged in speaking to the members during the session. The orders were made to apply to the women and to the men. Since the women have gotten the better of the men, they are seeking to enslave the men in working for bills, and one of the measures which has caused their attention is that providing for a moving picture center located in the port being that they are seeking to pass.

Hampden-Sydney Building. Trustees of Hampden-Sydney college, the Presbyterian school near Charlottesville now under the presidency of Joseph D. Egerton, have begun preparations for the construction of new buildings on the campus for homes for faculty members and for other purposes to cost $2,000,000. This money is coming from the sale of the work of the department. The announcement was

Bond Issue Is to Be Passed to People

RICHMOND, March 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Opponents of a bond issue for roads won a signal victory in the House of Delegates tonight when, by a vote of 55 to 39, the lower branch refused to refer the bill to the referendum. The bill, which was introduced by Delegate R. Lindsay Gordon, of Louisa, the patron of the bill which provided for abandonment of the project. He alleged interference with the work of the legislature or attempt to dictate to the members what they should and should not do. Mr. Gordon made his attack on the floor of the House, and the matter was referred to the committee on the subject of the action of the legislature.

Liquor Purchasers Guilty. Decision of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia is that men who buy liquor from bootleggers and moonshiners are guilty of a misdemeanor. That is what the lawyers are saying was the net result of the decision in the case of Crosby against Commonwealth, where a man named Watkins was indicted for transporting liquor after having bought it from Crosby, as alleged in the controversy. Crosby was convicted, and Watkins appeared to have been indicted, but the record in the case does not show if he was tried. But he was indicted for transporting, the allegation being that he was acting in concert with Crosby and that they were liable to prosecute the buyer as guilty as the seller. This was declared on the floor of the Senate when the prohibition bill was up, the defeat of the amendment to declare liquor purchasers violators of the law was explained in the report of the conferees. So, men who buy liquor after having bought it from bootleggers and moonshiners are guilty of a misdemeanor, the lawyers say.

Women Jurors Not Agreed Upon Way Night Was Passed

TRENTON, March 11.—The vicissitudes of jury duty which compelled six men and six women all of the latter married and some the mothers of children, to remain out all night have not inspired the agitation in Mercer county that seems to have been created in St. Paul, Minn., where a similar situation developed a storm of protest against mixed juries. The case which the Trenton women were called to hear was one of an extremely disagreeable character, but in spite of this fact and the other disagreeable features incident to being locked up for 20 hours, they confined their description of their experience to the mere declaration that "it was not pleasant." They did not have the thought of a moderate attitude toward them by their male associates on the jury, their service, they admit would have been far more disagreeable than it proved to be.

The women who served on the Mercer jury refuse to agree in their recollection of just how they passed the 20 hours that they were locked in the jury room. Mrs. Bessie Hack, wife of Harry Hack, an employee of the Bell telephone company, says that "they played cards, read newspapers and, when they became weary, pulled cushions from armchairs and took naps on the floor." Only two of the five could be induced to discuss Mrs. Hack's statement. Both, when advised of her talk about "naps on the floor," were displeased. Each denied with vigor that anyone had taken a nap on the floor. Mrs. Mae Reading, No. 10 Roebuck avenue, says she did not even see any cardplaying, but Mrs. Nettie Robertson, No. 15 N. Olden avenue, recalled that there had been a "bit of pinocchle" with two women and four men occupying chairs.

PATROLMAN BATTLES GIRL TO PREVENT SUICIDE PLAN

NORFOLK, Va., March 10.—Traffic Officer Jack Tippy sustained several burns on his legs late yesterday afternoon when his trousers were splattered with acid from a bottle he was trying to wrest from the hands of Miss Corinne Allen, 18 years old, 624 Maithe avenue.

The young woman, in a fit of despondency, had swallowed the contents of a small vial of iodine. When Officer Tippy, driver of the police station, entered her room with the intention of removing her to a hospital, she is said to have leaped from the bed and raced across the room to the bureau. She snatched up a bottle of poison and was in the act of placing it to her lips when Tippy grabbed her.

They wrestled for possession of the bottle of deadly poison and in the struggle the fluid was splattered over the policeman's clothing. Finally, the girl was carried away in his arms from the house to the patrol wagon. After antidotes had

Ghost Always Make Escape

BY ALEXANDER HERMAN

NEW YORK, March 11.—The ghost always escapes. This is the history of all ghost hunts, and consequently other scientists have sought to explain the phenomenon in a different way. Dr. Walter F. Prince, director of the American Institute of Scientific Research, will capture the Antagonist within.

This festive spirit, the quarry of Dr. Prince in the "haunted" Macdonald house at Caledonia Mills, Nova Scotia, is believed by scientists to have some physical explanation, such as the Amblyopias.

This ghost was also a Canadian. It held folks in the vicinity of Montreal in terror for days. Then a woodman discovered the answer—a sick turkey entangled in a white sheet, from which it was trying to escape.

Almost every community in the United States has had a ghost or two—Albany, O., Benton, Ind., Dayton, O., Anderson, Ind., Grantsville, W. Va., Philadelphia and New York have had ghosts of note.

The most haunted house in this country is said to be the capital at Washington with 15 "haunted" spots ranging from that of the Deaconess, which is supposed to visit the Senate chamber after midnight.

The White Lady of the Hohenzollern—haunted of death at the palace in Berlin. It is said in appearance she was said to look like a broom. When the name of the royal family from Berlin, it is believed, that "The Sweeper," as the White Lady was nicknamed, went out of business.

The White Lady of Schonbrunn haunted the corridors of the Austrian palace. She was much fairer than her German sister, but just as deadly.

Whenever she appeared, she presaged death.

Red Man of France was the oddest of the spooks. He is supposed to have dogged the footsteps of Catherine de Medici and a long line of her successors. Those who did not follow his advice were doomed.

The Baron of Lo Christ was another Frenchman. It is reported that he warned King Louis XV of disaster, but the monarch was too busy with Countess Du Barry to listen to him. Two months later the king died.

The Danish ghost annoyed the royal family at Stockholm to such an extent that they had the building razed to the ground and rebuilt to be spook-proof.

There have been many English ghosts—Herne the Hunter, Queen Bess's Spirit, Katherine of Aragon and Catherine Howard. But the best known is the wrath of Anne Boleyn who is believed to drive down the Avenue of Berkley Park behind four headless horses driven by a coachman without a head.

Danishes still come calling in Ireland, according to reports and Scotland is not without its spooks. Napoleon at St. Helena thought he saw the apparition of Josephine. President Garfield said he conversed with his dead father, Lincoln had premonitory dreams. Goethe saw his own double writing by his side.

But never has one of these ghosts been caught.

Stokowski Wins The Music Award

Conductor of Philadelphia Orchestra First Recipient of Bok Prize—Gets $10,000 and Medal.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Leopold Stokowski, leader of the Philadelphia Orchestra was presented with the Philadelphia Award in the Academy of Music last night. The award consisted of a check for $10,000 and a gold medal beautifully inscribed. The award was created in June 1921 by Edward W. Bok, who deposited a fund of $200,000, from the annual revenue of which a prize of $10,000 is to be offered each year to that man or woman living in Philadelphia, its suburbs or vicinity, who during the year shall have contributed an act or performed a service calculated to advance the best and largest interests of this city.

Mr. Stokowski made no speech after having been presented with the award, but the ceremonies were concluded he told newspapermen that the check would be kept for his little baby daughter Sonia, and that it would be used for her education. The leader of the city's famous musical organization wished it to be known that he wanted the members of the orchestra to share in the honor accorded him. Immediately after he received the award, he withdrew to the front of the stage and signaled the orchestra for "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The check and the gold medal were in a beautifully engraved ivory case designed by Miss Violet Oakley and carried out with dignity by Douglas Galka, instructor in medal work at the School of Industrial Art.

The presentation address was made by Dr. W. W. Keen, chairman of the board of trustees of the Philadelphia Award. A large crowd was present in the auditorium and the applause that greeted the announcement that the leader of the Philadelphia Orchestra had been chosen for the award was tremendous. The audience was quite appreciative of the award with the judge, Mr. J. S. Stokowski.

Mr. Stokowski and his orchestra are prominently in the exercises, furnishing the entire musical program. Roland S. Morris, chairman of the Philadelphia Forum, introduced Mayor Moore as the chairman for the evening. Addresses were delivered by Governor Sproul and James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States.

Yeast Company Appeal Is Upheld by Com. Blair

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Appeal of the Fleischmann company, Inc. of New York, from orders of Prohibition Commission Hayes cancelling its permit for the bottling of alcohol in connection with the manufacture of yeast at its Peckskill, N. Y., and Lancaster, District of Columbia, plant, was sustained tonight by Interior Revenue Commissioner Blair. At the same time Mr. Blair upheld orders by Mr. Hayes cancelling permits for the sale of alcohol by the company's agencies at Philadelphia, Scranton, Pa., Yonkers, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Bridgeport, Cambridge and Cincinnati.

Senators Fight 'Wrecking Navy' By Economies

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Republican leaders in the Senate fought a "wrecking navy" by economies. The Senate today passed a bill to save it from the cut-throat economy which the House has decided to apply.

Senator Lodge, Republican leader and son of the late Senator of Washington, acting chairman of the Naval Affairs committee, declared that with President Harding's policy they will be able to conserve the country's resources. He said that the drastic reductions proposed would be most unwise.

The same sort of a deal which was proposed last year in a bill to reduce the navy's budget, was now being proposed. It was said that the bill would be passed for the administration to pull it through in July 1921.

Hundred Years Old But Still at Work

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 10.—Harriett Evans, former slave, who says that she is around 100 years of age, and is perhaps the oldest woman in New Hanover county, is still making her daily rounds selling vegetables. She recalls that today 70 years ago, she was "placed" on the block at the Duplin county courthouse and offered for sale. She was bought by "Mars" Frank Newberry, who at that time was one of Duplin's largest plantation owners, who owned a large number of slaves.

"Aunt Harriett" says that she was a grown woman at the time and that she had been put up for sale by a former owner who had decided to get clear of some of his slaves. She says that the treatment accorded her by her new master was all that she expected that he gave her plenty of food, pretty dresses and a "toddy" when she was sick. Harriett lives at Wrightsville Sound and is well known and highly respected by the white people of that section. She remained with her master many years after the "sunder" and says that she lived much better than any of the "free niggers."

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

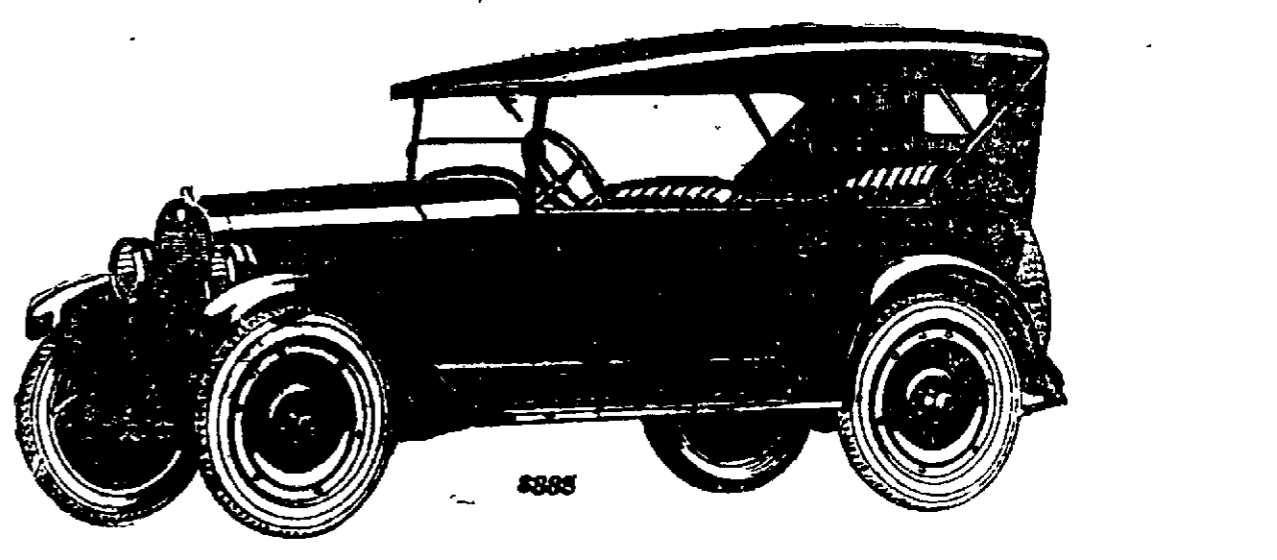

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

Furey Charged With Mulcing Lynchburg Man

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 10.—Herbert Furey, was indicted here with John Lynch several months ago on charges of engineering an alleged conspiracy came in which Edward Carter of Lynchburg, Va., lost his life savings $28,000, at Hot Springs, Ark., late in 1921.

E. B. Vestal, chief of police of Lynchburg, Va., said officials tonight of Furey's arrest there.

Straton Sermons Drove Her To Quit

NEW YORK, March 9.—"I was sick of hearing sermons about the iniquities of New York city. We all live here and I think it is a pretty good place and from a moral point of view no worse than any other large city. Of course, it has things of which it ought to be ashamed, but so have other cities. I was tired of hearing New York abused. Once I asked Dr. Straton if he would give us another kind of a sermon for a change."

This is in effect the judgment of Mrs. Montague Howard, daughter of Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, the founder of Calvary Baptist church, who has withdrawn his membership. Mrs. Howard herself a year ago gave up her membership in Calvary church because she believed that Dr. Straton's sermons had become bids for notoriety. To a reporter at her home, Mrs. Howard said that she did not know why her father had withdrawn his letters from the church.

"That my mother and father placed their letters in the Cambridge Baptist church was a natural matter of sentiment, as my brother, Kenneth, has been pastor there ever since he came home from France," she said. "I placed my letter in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, No. 4 West 46th street."

Dr. MacArthur and his wife and daughter are not the only ones to transfer their allegiance from Calvary church, but several have given no reason for the transfer. At the Fifth Avenue Baptist church it was said four women were admitted there last Sunday, but none had given any objection to Dr. Straton as a motive for joining the Fifth Avenue church.

Mrs. Howard, when asked about Dr. MacArthur's work during the 42 years he was pastor of Calvary church, said that while Dr. MacArthur was never afraid to meet any public question of vital importance to the public welfare and had never been afraid to speak his mind, he had never spoken in such a manner as the present pastor.

Dr. and Mrs. MacArthur have been members of Calvary church for more than half a century. Last fall Dr. MacArthur asked that his name be removed from the church calendar as pastor emeritus, stating the sermons of Dr. Straton were of such a sensational nature he did not wish to remain as pastor emeritus.

Dr. Straton when asked about the withdrawal of Dr. MacArthur from his church, said he had nothing to say at present, but would probably issue a statement later.

Asks $1,000 Damages For Bite by Dog

RICHMOND, Va., March 11.—A damage suit of $1,000, instituted jointly against Monte Stone, president of the Monte Stone Motor Company, and the Jefferson hotel, was filed in Hustings Court, Part II, this morning by Grace Brooks, a former servant at the hotel. The plaintiff sets out in the declaration that she was seized and painfully bitten by a vicious dog, the property of Mr. Stone, while passing through the corridor of the hotel on her way to work in March, 1921.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Distress and suffering follow in the wake of Stephen Weinberg, Comdr. Stanley Wyman, U. S. N., attached to the Brooklyn navy yard—alleged pseudo naval officer.

After temporarily quenching his ambition to mingle in high social circles and to appear prominently in public print, the accused man, who last September was received at the White House as the naval escort to Princess Fatima, sultana of Kabul, deserted the victim of his brazen adventure and left her practically penniless, it was learned Tuesday.

She and her sons, who came here last year believing they could secure social prominence, will sail from New York Saturday, penniless and as public charges. They will return home by way of England, they traveled eastward in coming to the United States and landed at San Francisco.

In the meantime, the man who is charged with having been responsible for the financial downfall of the noblewoman, is arrogantly declaring that the federal authorities are demanding "too much bond" in his case, and his father declared that "Stephen's activities are only play boy pranks."

Weinberg will be brought to this city with the next few days, according to reports from New York, and will be immediately arraigned before the district criminal court for a preliminary hearing. His trial will be held within a month after the time he arrives here, District Attorney Peyton Gordon stated last night.

The accused man asserts that "most" of the alleged impersonations which he has engaged in are "perfectly absurd," but admits that he has on previous occasions been under investigation by the police and medical authorities.

"I was convicted once, and served part of a sentence," he stated after his arrest. "The charge against me was forgery. But that has been wiped out by a pardon, and second by the appointment of a lunacy commission, which declared me a neurasthenic and had been committed to an institution."

He makes little or no comment regarding the princess, but the true condition of the noblewoman has been revealed yesterday when the plans for the involuntary leavetaking were completed.

The princess brought but little cash with her. She had with her the 44 1-2 carat Darayal diamond, second in size only on the Koh-i-Noor formerly owned by the grandfather of the princess and now in the royal crown of England. She valued it at upwards of $100,000 and expected to sell it on the New York market, but $40,000 was the best price offered.

From a $38-a-day suite at the Waldorf-Astoria, and an official reception at the White House, the princess, within a few months came down to poverty. But for the interest taken in her case by Svobol Island, daughter of Frank A. Boland, attorney for the Hotel Men's Association of New York, the princess and her son might have landed in jail at hotel "beats."

The Afghans ran up hotel bills at the Waldorf and Ansonia and were sued for a loan of $2,000 by Magar S. Dave, Fifth Avenue jeweler, who in consequence of his suit, has the Darayal diamond safe in the keeping of the Metropolitan Trust Company and intends to keep it there until his $2,000 loan is settled.

Miss Boland, through her father, squared accounts with the hotels, and aided the princess to establish herself in a small Lexington avenue apartment. For a short time the royal family accepted charity from the Salvation Army as well as Miss Boland, but after a time the British government was interested in the princess' case and for the last six weeks or more funds have been supplied the princess from the British consulate in New York.

Two Burglars Killed By Storekeeper

PETERSBURG, Va., March 11.—Recently several attempts have been made to rob the store of B. T. Gwaltney at Disputanta, Prince George county. This morning about one o'clock another attempt was made and as a result two negroes were killed. Gwaltney was awakened by the ringing of a burglar alarm.

He immediately awakened his son and the two proceeded to the store, both armed with shotguns. As Gwaltney and his son approached two negro men ran off. When they failed to return after repeated calls young Gwaltney said to have fired at them both. One of the negroes was killed instantly, the other dying an hour later. A coroner's inquest this morning exonerated young Gwaltney.

Jobless Sailor Takes Washings

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 11.—Even an optimist, despite almost a year of fruitless job hunting, Roy Schuman, 15-year-old former sailor, is making a success of taking in washings to support himself and his invalid parents.

Schuman was discharged from the navy in February, 1921. He arrived home to find his parents ill and unable to support themselves.

"Don't worry," he told them, "I'll get something to do and it's easier for us."

Spring came, then summer and autumn, but all the work Roy had been able to find was just enough odd jobs to keep him from losing hope.

Just when things began to look pretty black, Roy got the idea that was to solve his problem. Since his return from the navy, he had been doing his mother's washings—and doing them well, the neighbors said. If he could do washings for his own family, why, he asked himself, could not he do them just as well for outsiders?

Against the advice of some older people and in spite of the jibes of scoffers, Roy went to the proprietor of a department store and explained his plan.

Interested in the scheme, the proprietor sold him an electric washing machine and an electric iron on easy terms. With these Roy went home and started to work.

In three months he has picked up a record business and it is growing larger daily.

Down in the basement of the Schuman home, you can hear at almost any hour of the day the sloshing and whirling of the electric washer and up from below comes the smell of hot, soapy things made clean. The Schuman home is encircled by filled clothes-lines.

Each morning Roy goes out with a basket and collects the wash for that day and in the evening he carries it back to his satisfied customers.

The ex-sailor was found standing knee-deep in clothes in front of the sloshing washer. A question as to whether he liked his job brought a wide grin.

"Well, I can't say I really like it," he said. "But it's better than ordinary manual labor—and there's more money in it."

"There isn't anything about it to be ashamed of. It's honest work, isn't it?"

Schuman is planning busily as he bends over his wash tubs on a scheme to develop his present business into something greater, and is hoarding his savings to get it.

FIRST WOMAN MEMBER OF BELGIAN ROYAL ACADEMY

BY MILTON BRONNER

PARIS, March 11.—Just now the most talked of woman in Paris is the beautiful Comtesse De Noailles.

The crowning event of her great career has just come in the way of a solemn sealing of the fan. The Belgian Royal Academy, devoted to arts and letters, has formally admitted her to membership. She is the first woman thus honored and she is likely to be the last for some time because she has no rival anywhere.

Here in Paris she would have been made a member of the famous French Academy long ago if its rules didn't limit membership among the "Forty Immortals" strictly to the male sex.

But the academy did the next best thing. It crowned one of her works and gave her the greatest prize in its bestowal.

There are folks here who will tell you the comtesse reminds them of the child in the fairy story to whom all the good fairies brought their choicest gifts.

The boulevardiers will tell you she is one of the loveliest women in this capital.

Society folk will tell you she is one of the wittiest who ever entered a salon.

Music lovers will tell you what a fine musician she is.

Critics will tell you that her poetry is one of the glories of modern French literature.

Perhaps her cosmopolitanism has something to do with all her gifts. She was born in Greece, but she is a princess of Brancovan and, therefore, a Roumanian.

And the orator who welcomed her into the Belgian Academy recalled

Spring came, then summer and autumn, but all the work Roy had been able to find was just enough odd jobs to keep him from losing hope.

Just when things began to look pretty black, Roy got the idea that was to solve his problem. Since his return from the navy, he had been doing his mother's washings—and doing them well, the neighbors said. If he could do washings for his own family, why, he asked himself, could not he do them just as well for outsiders?

Against the advice of some older people and in spite of the jibes of scoffers, Roy went to the proprietor of a department store and explained his plan.

Interested in the scheme, the proprietor sold him an electric washing machine and an electric iron on easy terms. With these Roy went home and started to work.

In three months he has picked up a record business and it is growing larger daily.

Down in the basement of the Schuman home, you can hear at almost any hour of the day the sloshing and whirling of the electric washer and up from below comes the smell of hot, soapy things made clean. The Schuman home is encircled by filled clothes-lines.

Each morning Roy goes out with a basket and collects the wash for that day and in the evening he carries it back to his satisfied customers.

The ex-sailor was found standing knee-deep in clothes in front of the sloshing washer. A question as to whether he liked his job brought a wide grin.

"Well, I can't say I really like it," he said. "But it's better than ordinary manual labor—and there's more money in it."

"There isn't anything about it to be ashamed of. It's honest work, isn't it?"

Schuman is planning busily as he bends over his wash tubs on a scheme to develop his present business into something greater, and is hoarding his savings to get it.

Holds Business Now Improving

Samuel Vaucrain Says Outlook for Prosperous Year Is Very Bright—Europe Running Nearer Normal Than Us.

By SAMUEL M. VAUCLAIR, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, in an interview with Edward M. Thierry for N. E. A. Service.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Business is rapidly getting on a sounder basis in both this country and in Europe.

Wholesome signs of a permanent improvement are plentiful here and I observed many during the trip I recently took through European countries.

Next fall will see us all busy, though considering everything present conditions are very satisfactory. The chief requirement for continued improvement is confidence. Prosperity is coming back. Not later than next October I think we will see more business than at any time in 12 months.

I found Europe in much better shape. There is a scarcity of business there, as here. But we cannot expect 100 per cent business when so much of the world is out of the market or is recovering from the effects of the war.

Germany is the busiest country in Europe because of the low value of the mark. The Germans can contend in the open market because of

SHORT-SKIRT WAR IN SCHOOL SPLITS KANSAS TOWN

MAUDE BUCHANAN (LEFT) AND ALICE HANSEN (RIGHT) AND THEIR SKIRTS WHICH WILL FIGURE AS EXHIBITS IN KANSAS SHORT-SKIRT COURT BATTLE.

VINLAND, Kas., March 11.—A war over short skirts has split this farming community into two hotly opposed factions—those who are for 'em and those who are agin' 'em. The whole village is holding its breath in expectancy of a court decision to settle the matter.

At the hearing two schoolgirls will be the principal witnesses. School board members will be defendants.

The father of one of the girls will be the plaintiff. Two skirts will be exhibits A and B.

And a yardstick will determine the case.

You see, the local school board passed a rule prohibiting skirts higher than three inches below the knee.

The school principal declared the skirts of Alice Hansen, 16, and Maude Buchanan, 15, violated this rule. He suspended them.

Miss Hansen's father took the matter into court in behalf of his daughter and her chum and secured an injunction restraining the board from keeping the girls out of school.

And the final decision will come March 18.

Meanwhile schoolboys are boycotting the general store, kept by a member of the school board.

Ministers are taking up modern dances in Sunday sermons.

The girls are demurely studying reading, writing and arithmetic.

And the school board's sitting tight.

most on the spot formerly occupied by the Mountain Island cotton mills, swept away in the flood which caused the Catawba river in July, 1916 to work damage of millions through Carolina territory. It is three miles from Mt. Holly from which place a spur track has already been built and is now being operated in getting construction materials to the site of the development.

It is estimated that it will require two years for the construction of this development, although company officials have let the contract concerning the company announced Friday afternoon in an authorized statement from local offices.

The construction work is already under way. Houses have been erected for officials of the contracting company, and other preliminary steps have been taken.

The building of this plant represents the most colossal contract undertaken yet started by the Southern Power company, with the exception of building the impending plant at Bridgewater. It is to be the second largest power development which the company has ever constructed, its production to be 30,000 horsepower of electrical energy, or exceeded only by the capacity of the plant which the company built and maintains now at Wateree, S. C., which has a capacity of 35,000 horsepower. The dam at Mountain Island will have a "head" of 80 feet.

The site of the development is at Washington, March 11.—In response to the protest of Senator Carson (D-Ga.) President Harding today withdrew from the senate the nomination of William T. Cross for postmaster at Concord Depot, Campbell county, Va., and sent in the name of Jesse M. Martin, who has been postmaster there for nineteen years.

The Republican tried to remove Mr. Martin, who has served as postmaster nineteen years and appears to have the almost unanimous support of the citizens of the office community. The president also sent to the senate the nomination of John L. Schofield as postmaster at the University of Richmond.

Door Handle
Was Charged

LYNCHBURG, March 10.—Hot on the trail of a bootlegger, Police Officer Charles Simpson early this morning let out a healthy yell as he retreated quickly from a doorway which he was trying to enter at 213 Jackson street. The cause of the officer's hasty withdrawal was a charge of electricity that had coursed up his arm as he grasped the door handle. The negro inmate of the house, Ed. Reid, who was later arrested, had taken elaborate precaution to prevent the theft of the 40 gallon store of liquor which he had in stock, by a system of wiring which connected the metallic door handle with the electric lighting switch.

Following the shock administered to Officer Simpson, the squad of men, including Lieutenant Wilson, Officers Joseph Carroll, Prebble and Bailey, entered the house throughout another entrance and found two 2-gallon barrels of corn liquor which was added to the supply of orphans booze already resting at the barracks. Reid said last night that he had only stocked up on the night of the raid and he was anticipating a profitable sale. Credit for working up the case is due to Officers Monaghan and Bailey. Reid was bailed to Saturday morning when he will be given a hearing.

terday on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Officer Bailey making the arrest. Paul Gott was lodged in the barracks into yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and violating the prohibition law. James and Fred Jamison, who with Mae Robertson and Anna Duise, were arrested early yesterday morning at the Central hotel and against whom three charges were made by the police, were admitted to bail yesterday after they had appealed from the decision of the police court. Each of the four defendants were fined $21.25 on the statutory charge involving immoral conduct. The two men were sentenced to serve 30 days on a charge of vagrancy and they were bound over to the grand jury on the charge of having violated the prohibition law. An additional charge of perjury was made against James Jamison after the police court hearing. All the decisions were appealed.

Big Offensive Against
Bootleggers in Georgia

SAVANNAH, March 10.—F. D. Dismukes, prohibition director for Georgia, reached Savannah today and was in conference with C. L. Hurlbut, head of the Mobile squad of prohibition enforcement officers, and J. W. Griffin, chief of one of the State groups of prohibition agents. Mr. Dismukes authorized the statement that there had been fifty-two stills destroyed in Chatham county during the last two weeks.

He said that the various groups of prohibition enforcement officers would hereafter work together in Georgia and that a "big offensive" would begin here within a short time. The combine forces, according to Mr. Dismukes, will give special attention to a large whiskey ring operating in this section.

"GORILLA MAN," REFORMED BY
BY BRAIN OPERATION

BENJAMIN BUCKER'S OWN STORY OF:

How It Feels to Be Bad

When I went bad I cannot say exactly—it must have been 25 years ago.

I suddenly lost memory of my identity. I wandered all over the country. My brain at times was racked with pain. I had terrible fears.

At night things seemed to snap inside my brain. A thin curtain would drop and I could think only of evil and crime.

When these evil spells seized me I saw grayish white before my eyes. Sometimes I felt I wanted to be good. Then the curtain was green.

Today green rest came. But when I see white, I am seized with fear.

How Its Feels to Become Good

When I saw the record accusing me of murder, I knew I was bad. My operation did I know I'd committed a crime.

After the operation I felt that some heavy weight had been lifted from my brain. I lay on my cot and watched the prison guards passing.

The removal of the weight on my brain seemed to permit me to think. Before it seemed that my thoughts ran up against some barrier and stopped.

Now when I think of evil, the thought simply won't pass my brain.

BY ROY GIBBONS

STATESVILLE, Ill., March 11.—Benjamin Bucker, once a "gorilla man" and "demon killer," whose lust to crush out the lives of those he hated with his powerful hairy hands made hardened prison guards quake with fear, today is an upright man and a model prisoner.

Bucker's plea for a pardon now is before the State Board of Pardons. He may soon leave the new penitentiary here where he's serving a life term for murder and take his place in honest society as a teacher.

This change was wrought almost over night by the magic of the surgeon's knife.

Prison doctors learned that a large calibre rifle bullet was lodged in the left lobe of Bucker's brain, unknown to Bucker. It had been there 25 years.

Physicians decided to remove the lead pellet. They prepared the operating table.

A cursing, kicking, evil-eyed "gorilla man" was subdued by the fumes of ether.

And when the ether fumes died away a calm, contented prisoner came to consciousness on his white hospital cot.

The incorrigible prisoner of old—the man guards feared to cross—became a docile, easily handled prisoner. Then the strength of his surgical reformation, he begged for a pardon.

Of Bucker's past life he remembers little. He knows that he was born in Calahoula Parish, La., 40 years ago, that he had no trouble with the police as a boy.

At 15 he was working in Memphis, Tenn. One night, he dimly recalls a fight took place. Maybe he was a participant, maybe a bystander.

Anyway, when he regained consciousness in a hospital, attendants told him he had been shot several times. They said they had removed all the bullets.

But they'd forgotten one—the one lodged in Bucker's brain.

In a daze Bucker wandered far and wide. The embedded bullet had dropped a curtain between the lobes of his brain.

Sometimes a gray mist would rise before his eyes. He could think of nothing but evil.

And he would kill—crush with his big, hairy hands!

It was in that way that he killed Ashby Thomas, a fellow workman, at Watkins, Ill., in 1905.

The state couldn't hang him for it because it couldn't prove a motive. So Bucker was sent to the penitentiary for life.

Then came the operation. And now—perhaps a pardon.

Bucker wants to be a teacher. He says he's well enough educated to become one.

Ponzi Asks Court
To Prevent Trial

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11.—Charles Ponzi, now serving a five-year sentence as a Federal prisoner for violation of the law prohibiting the use of the mails to defraud in connection with his high financing methods, contested through counsel in the Supreme Court today the efforts of the State of Massachusetts to obtain him for trial on an indictment charging him with 22 offenses under the State laws.

The United States District Court at Boston ruled against him, and he now has an appeal pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals. The latter court asked the Supreme Court to advise it whether with the consent of the Attorney General, the State of Massachusetts could lawfully obtain possession of Ponzi while he is serving his Federal sentence.

Counsel for Ponzi insisted that the Attorney General had no jurisdiction in such a matter and that the case would be the same whether the official agreed or opposed removal. Chief Justice Taft asked why Ponzi opposed trial at this time, and when informed that the prisoner did not want to lose his "liberty," caused an outburst of laughter by stating that he was not aware Ponzi had any.

Massachusetts desires to proceed with the trial of Ponzi before the expiration of his Federal sentence, because some of its witnesses may, it fears, die or disappear in the meantime.

Senate Turns Down
Pilot Investigation

RICHMOND, March 11.—The senate this afternoon rejected the Downey resolution calling for an investigation of the Virginia Pilots' Association and proposing a 1-cent tax. The resolution was debated at length, but finally defeated by a vote of 19 to 15.

Thus was scored another victory for the pilots who so far have resisted all unsuccessful every effort on the part of the State to obtain any information regarding their receipts and expenditures.

$10,000,000 Drive
For D. C. Cathedral

NEW YORK, March 11.—The National Cathedral Association opened a campaign yesterday to raise $10,000,000 for the completion of their cathedral in Washington, D. C. One hundred thousand members willing to pay a dollar a year membership until the cathedral is completed are to be sought as the first part of the building program on the theory that their contribution will enable the construction to proceed regularly. Large gifts and bequests also will be asked.

Dr. Freeman said that the splendid cathedral was the one great need of Washington today.

"Visitors to the greatest Capital City in the world," he said, "are shown our great temple of financial interests, our beautiful President's home, our splendid Capitol, testifying to the political greatness of the nation, and the wonderful library. And then the visitor turns to his guide and says, 'Show me your great religious building,' and he is told that there is none."

Cotton Goods Demand
Is Reported Stronger

WASHINGTON, March 10.—An increased demand for cotton goods in Chinese markets soon may be expected, the Department of Commerce announced today. American exporters and manufacturers, the department added, should begin active preparations to re-enter these markets as soon as possible.

Greater optimism was reported in Shanghai, where goods may be expected to compete with the low prices of Japanese products, the superiority in American quality should offset this disadvantage.

2,500 Shriners to Meet at Kinston

KINSTON, N. C., March 10.—Three big tobacco warehouses were today available to the local Shrine club for the indoor festivities incident to the spring ceremonial of Sudan Temple, Eastern Carolina's tribe. One of these, it was said, will be used for a tremendous dinner at which thousands will be served. Sudan Temple, which has headquarters at New Bern, will gather here May 18 for the annual mon-keyshines and initiations. Not fewer than 2,500 Shriners and others will assemble for the ceremonial. Local Shriners are expecting the attendance to be nearer 3,000.

Can't Live on 60c a Day

EMPORIA, Kas., March 11.—"It can't be done," was the unanimous verdict of 14 women students of the Kansas State Normal School who tried last week to live on 60 cents a day for meals. Although the women ate at the school's cafeteria, where meals are served at cost, they found 60 cents a day insufficient. The 60-cent figure was suggested by an Emporia cafe man at a recent hearing of the Industrial Court in Emporia. Two of the co-eds were sick when the test ended, and one woman, already underweight, lost her appetite entirely.
